

AGEING WELL

DEMENTIA OR AGE-RELATED MEMORY LOSS?

A seminar for Swiss citizens and their families/friends living in the UK explaining everything about dementia, including the difference between normal memory loss due to ageing and signs of dementia. Can it be prevented?

With over 850,000 people suffering from dementia in the UK, a figure due to rise to 1.1 million by 2025 and two million by 2050, dementia is likely to affect most families.
